Robert E. Heggstad has practiced law in Washington DC for thirty years. However, he acquired, purely by happenstance, the personal specimens of Alfred Russel Wallace, British anthropologist and explorer, whose paper on evolution was presented in 1858 simultaneously with Darwin's to the Linnaean Society in London. His decades-long curation of this collection, and astounding photographs of the specimens, combine to make one of the most fascinating stories of our time. Come early to look at the graphics. Presentation starts at 7:15, discussion follows.
